
The Pacific Public Health Training Center, UCLA School of Nursing
Inter Tribal Council of Arizona, Inc.

POPULATION-BASED NURSING PRACTICE FOR NURSES WORKING WITH AMERICAN INDIAN/ALASKA NATIVE COMMUNITIES

August 19 -27, 2007

*Dorothy J. Wiley, RN, PhD and Felicia Hodge, DrPH
UCLA School of Nursing, Los Angeles, California*

PRELIMINARY SCHEDULE

- Sunday: Introduction to Population-based Community and Public Health Nursing
- Monday: Overview of Health Indicators that Disproportionately Affect American Indian/Alaska Native Populations
Ethics Issues Related to Health Disparities
Workshop/lunch
Defining Problems, Tracking Determinants Evaluating Programs
Workshop Activities
- Tuesday: Government and Systems-Based Approaches to Improving Health
Lunch
Approaches Tailored to Programs for American Indian/Alaska Native Populations
Workshop Activities
- Wednesday: Field trip
Lunch/Workshop
Facilitating Change in Behaviors through System's Based Approaches
- Thursday: Approaches to Special Health Care Needs of American Indian/Alaska Native Groups.
Talking Circles as an Example of Cancer Prevention Strategies
- Friday: All-day Workshop Groups – Developing Targeted Strategies for Real Problems
- Saturday: Free day
- Sunday: All-day Workshop Groups - Developing Targeted Strategies for Real Problems
- Monday: Individual & Group Project Presentations

For information please contact Jeannie Martínez at 310 825-0540 or email jemartin@sonnet.ucla.edu
